Who we are

The Chartered Institute of Arbitrators (CI Arb) is the professional home of dispute resolvers. As an international not-for-profit organisation, our mission is to promote the use of Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) as the preferred means of resolving disputes throughout the world.

With over 15,000 members working in sectors as diverse as finance, construction, oil and gas and agriculture in over 133 countries worldwide, we pride ourselves on being a truly global network. Many of our members are active ADR professionals, while others choose to become members for personal development or to enhance their careers.

We offer support to our international membership through a range of benefits and activities. With nearly 40 branches worldwide, we can ensure that all of our members have access to CI Arb training and benefits, wherever they are in the world. Most importantly, CI Arb's international reputation and academic rigour provides our members with a powerful mark of quality assurance to help open doors.

CI Arb
evolving to resolve

What is Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR)

Whenever a dispute arises either in a professional or personal environment, both parties are generally advised to seek professional help to enable them to resolve the dispute.

Whether it's a dispute between companies or a couple seeking a divorce, going to court is usually the first option that comes to mind. However, while litigation has its advantages, it can also be expensive, inflexible and highly time-consuming. That's why more and more disputes are now being resolved out of court using Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) methods.

The most commonly practised forms of Alternative Dispute Resolution are:

- Arbitration
- Adjudication
- Mediation

In most cases ADR methods are faster, cheaper, less formal and more flexible than litigation. It's therefore no surprise that these alternative forms of dispute resolution are becoming increasingly important to individuals, companies and organisations across the world. With the growing use of ADR, there has never been a better time to train with the world's only dedicated global professional institute for dispute resolvers.

Arbitration

What is arbitration?

Arbitration is a formal, private and binding process where disputes are resolved by a final award made by one or more independent Arbitrators. The process of Arbitration is a faster, simpler and less expensive alternative to litigation. The parties involved in a dispute must consent to Arbitration, and the Arbitrator(s) to be used may be agreed on by the parties or nominated by an independent body.

Who can become an Arbitrator?

Anyone can become an Arbitrator. While many Arbitrators work in the legal profession, many do not and come from various professional and technical backgrounds; Arbitration is a secondary profession. The Arbitrator has a judicial role in listening to the facts and evidence presented by the parties, applying the relevant law and issuing a final award. Parties will often seek someone who has the core skills required for an Arbitrator and has experience in the area of business that the dispute has arisen in, thereby understanding its complexities.

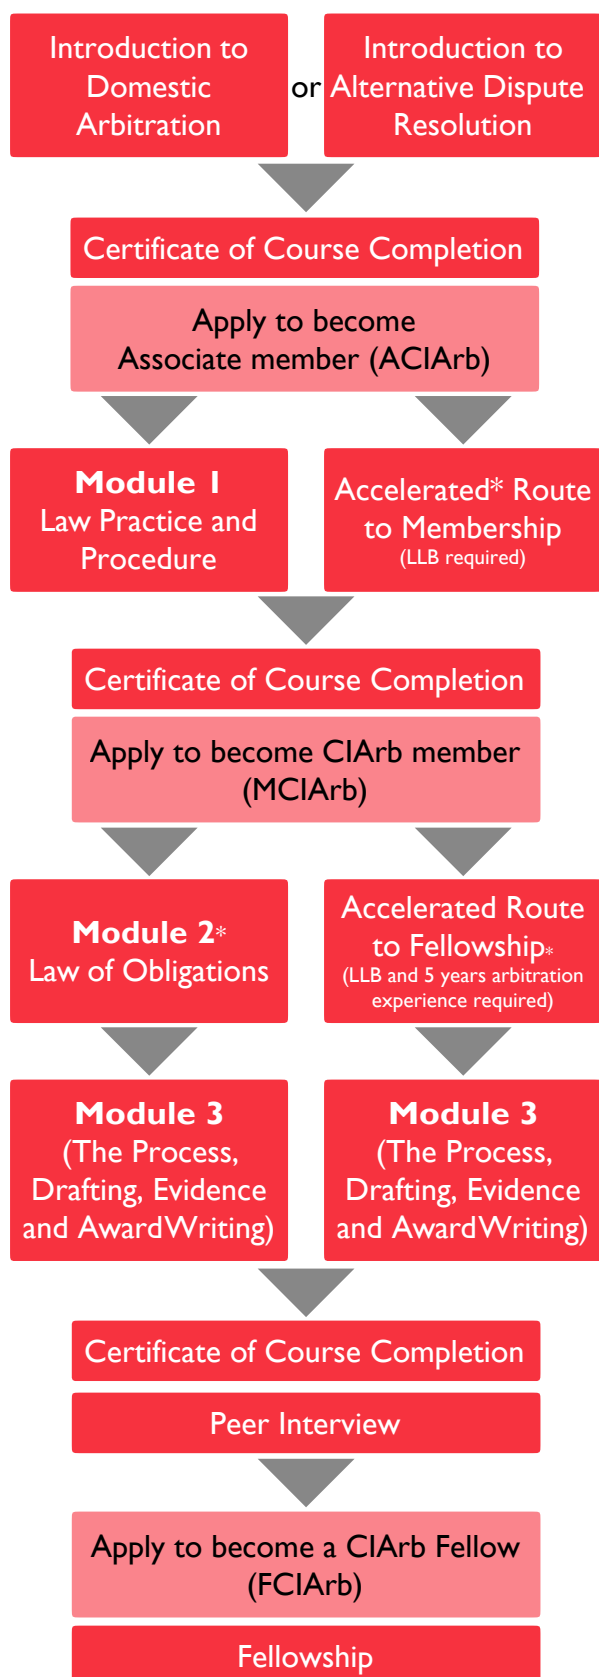

How can I become an Arbitrator?

The first step to becoming an Arbitrator is to undertake training courses. CI Arb has a Pathways Programme in Domestic Arbitration and International Arbitration which covers the law of obligations, the law of Arbitration, Arbitration practice and procedure and award writing. Fast track assessment programmes are available for legal professionals with experience in Arbitration. Further information on CI Arb's courses is available at: www.ciarb.org/training

Module I

Law Practice and Procedure (Domestic)

What is the aim of the course?

To provide candidates with a detailed knowledge of the law underpinning Arbitration and the procedural elements of a Domestic (i.e. non-International) Arbitration, and to enable them to understand and participate in such proceedings.

The course focuses on legal principles, process, practice and procedure in Domestic Arbitration. It is therefore valuable for anyone wishing to understand this topic generally, for example as a party, party representative or witness. It is also an essential requirement for qualification as a Fellow of CIArb, and for those who aim to practice as a Domestic Arbitrator.

What are the entry requirements?

There are no pre-requisite entry requirements for this course.

English Language Competence - CIArb training and assessment is carried out in English it is therefore essential that candidates are proficient in both written and spoken English.

Where English is not a candidate's first language, it is recommended that they have achieved a standard that is, as a minimum, equivalent to the International English Language Testing System (IELTS) level 7 or a score of 94-101 in the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) system.

CIArb issues this advice as a guideline and, while it will not require any evidence of this standard prior to enrolment on a course, candidates who do not have this standard of English may be disadvantaged.

What is covered within the course?

- The nature and purpose of Arbitration within ADR.
- The Arbitration Act 1996.
- Choices available to parties
- The Arbitration agreement and Commencement.
- Appointment of an Arbitral Tribunal.
- Arbitral Tribunal.

- Pleadings, Documents and Evidence.
- Pre-Hearing Procedures.
- Remedies, Costs, Interest and Currency.
- Awards.
- The Role of the Court.
- Drafting.

What are the learning outcomes?

On successful completion of this course, candidates will be able to demonstrate sound conceptual, technical and/or practical knowledge of:

- The principles and practicalities of Arbitration;
- Application of the Arbitration process in England and Wales;
- The Arbitrator's jurisdiction and powers;
- Outcomes, remedies and Awards;
- Understanding the role of the State Court

How is the course delivered?

The course is delivered over a period of three months, with a combination of private study and attendance of the three face-to-face tutorials.

How will I be assessed?

Assessment of this course is split into two parts:

Part one is a case study exercise with a number of questions that candidates will be required to answer. Available marks: 40% of the marks.

Part two will consist of five questions, candidates will be required to select and answer three. Available marks: 60% (20% per question).

- Candidates must achieve a minimum overall mark of 55% to pass the course.

Module 1

Construction Adjudication

What is construction adjudication?

Construction Adjudication is a formal, private and binding process where construction related disputes are resolved by a decision made by an Adjudicator. The process of Adjudication is a faster, simpler and less expensive alternative to litigation. Construction Adjudication in the UK is governed by statute and is available as a right where disputes arise on construction projects. The Adjudicator to be used may be agreed by the parties or nominated by an independent body.

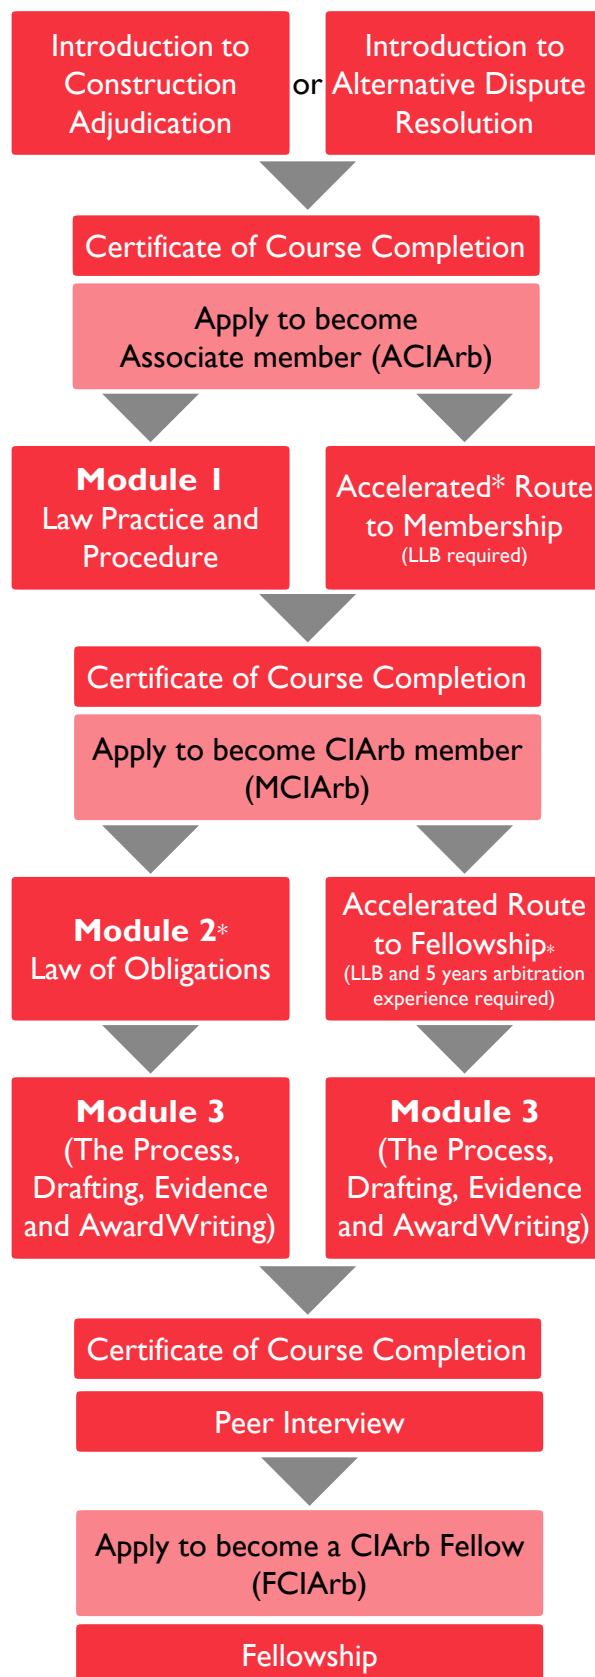

Who can become a construction adjudicator?

Many Adjudicators have a legal, architectural, engineering or surveying background. The Adjudicator has a judicial role in listening to the facts and evidence presented by the parties, applying the relevant law and issuing a decision. Parties will often seek someone who has the core skills required of an Adjudicator and experience in the construction industry, thereby understanding its complexities.

How can I become a construction adjudicator?

The first step to becoming a Construction Adjudicator is to undertake training courses. CIARB has a Pathways Programme in Construction Adjudication which covers the law of obligations, the law of Adjudication, Adjudication practice and procedure and decision writing. What is the aim of the course?

This module provides candidates with the knowledge of the main procedural elements of Construction Adjudication to enable them to understand and participate in such proceedings.

This course focuses on the process, key documents and procedures in Construction Adjudication, with the exception of writing a reasoned decision. It is therefore valuable for anyone wishing to understand the practice and procedure of Construction Adjudication generally, whether as a party, party representative or witness. It is also an essential requirement for qualification as a Fellow and for those who aim to practice as a Construction Adjudicator.

What are the entry requirements?

To register for the course, candidates must have successfully completed or be able to demonstrate:

- Successfully passed and completed Module 2, or
- Have a law degree, and/or legal practice certificate and have successfully passed the CI Arb Module 2 online exemption test.

What is covered within the course?

- The Adjudication process in detail.
- Issues in Adjudication.
- Core and relevant principles of the law of Evidence.
- Rules of evidence in Adjudication.
- Rules of evidence in common and civil law jurisdictions.
- Legal and substantive requirements.
- Reasoning and decision making.
- Structure and form of the decision.
- Publishing the Decision.

What are the learning outcomes?

On successful completion of this course, candidates will be able to demonstrate sound conceptual, technical and/or practical knowledge of:

- Recognising and evaluating evidence;
- The issues that arise from the parties' submissions;
- Being able to create, structure and deal with all the issues that arise.

- Deciding matters in dispute logically and in accordance with the law.
- The skills required to write Decisions correctly.
- The discursive and operative parts of the Adjudication Decision;
- Being able to deal with the parties' costs and interest of a Decision.

How is the course delivered?

The course is delivered over a period of three months, with a combination of private study and attendance of the three face-to-face tutorials.

How will I be assessed?

Assessment for this course is 4.5 hour Decision Writing exercise. Additional information is provided on the day of the assessment in the form of the Adjudicators notebook.

The examination is split into two parts.

Stage 1 is provided on-line 10 days before the formal examination.

Stage 2 is the 4.5 hour open book examination.

- Candidates must achieve a minimum overall mark of 70% to pass the course.

Mediation

What is mediation?

Mediation is an informal and private process where disputes are resolved by an independent and impartial mediator assisting parties to reach an agreement. The process of mediation is a faster, flexible and less expensive alternative to litigation. The parties involved in a dispute must consent to mediation and the mediator to be used may be agreed by the parties or nominated by an independent body.

Who can become a mediator?

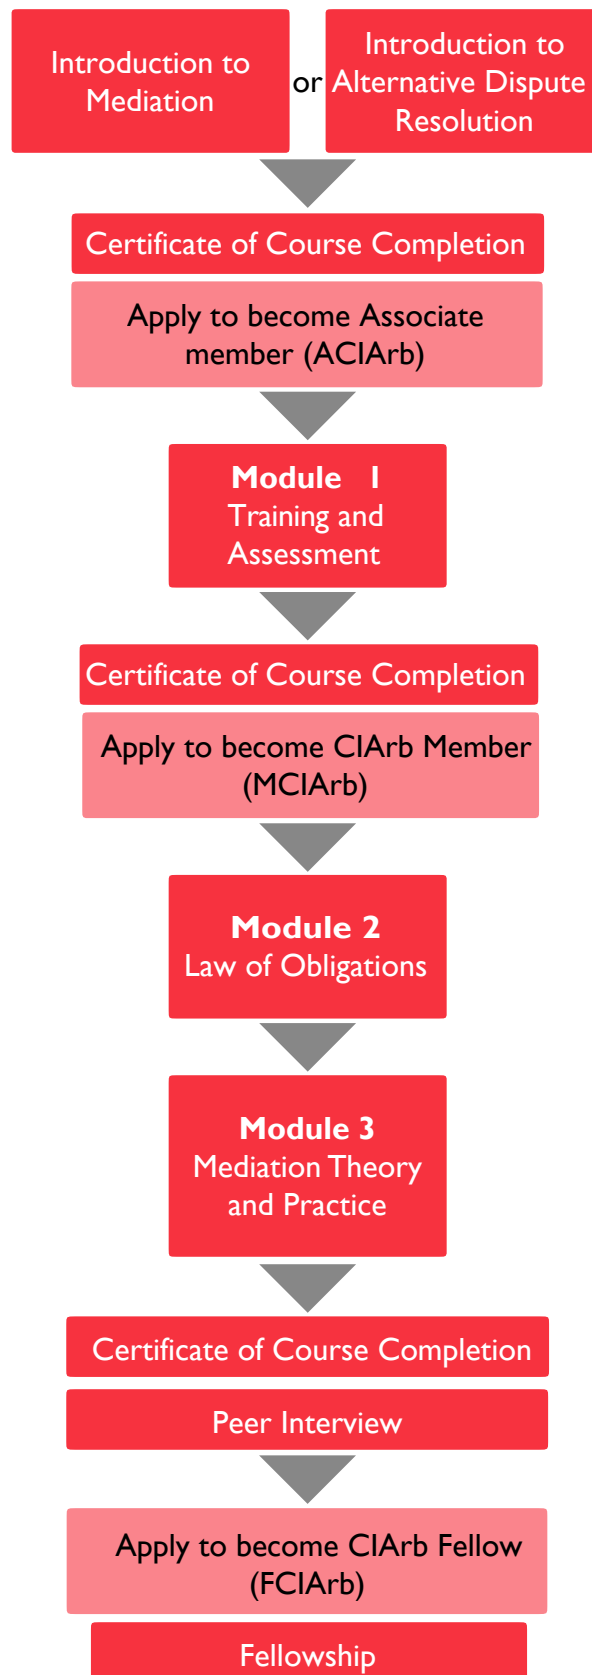

Anyone can become a mediator. While many mediators work in the legal profession, many do not and come from various professional and technical backgrounds; mediation is a secondary profession.

The mediator has a facilitator role to develop effective negotiations and communications between parties and work towards a resolution agreeable by both parties, who will often seek someone who has the core skills required for a mediator and knows the area of business that the dispute has arisen in thereby understanding its complexities.

How can I become a mediator?

The first step to becoming a mediator is to undertake training courses. CI Arb has a Pathways Programme in Mediation which covers the basic principles of mediation, skills based training, law of obligations and mediation theory. Further information on CI Arb's courses is available at: www.ciarb.org/training

- Assessment for this course is completed through an online multiple choice test.
- Candidates must achieve a minimum overall mark of 55% to pass the course.

Module 1

Commercial Mediation Training and Assessment

What is the aim of the course?

The course is aimed at candidates who wish to become a CIArb Member and Accredited Mediator. It is also of benefit to those who wish to use mediation skills in their current profession.

The course comprises 6 full days of skills-based learning delivered by experienced practicing mediators, who are also qualified trainers. Mediation has been shown to be an effective method of solving complex commercial disputes. The process engages skills that can have a positive impact on personal relationships. It is, therefore, suitable for:

- Individuals seeking to improve their communication skills;
- Arbitrators/Adjudicators looking to broaden their ADR practice;
- Conflict resolution professionals;
- Aspiring mediators.

What are the entry requirements?

There are no pre-requisite entry requirements for this course.

English Language Competence - CIArb training and assessment is carried out in English it is therefore essential that candidates are proficient in both written and spoken English.

Where English is not a candidate's first language it is recommended that they have achieved a standard that is, as a minimum, equivalent to the International English Language Testing System (IELTS) level 7 or a score of 94-101 in the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) system.

CIArb issues this advice as a guideline and while it will not require any evidence of this standard prior to enrolment on a course, candidates who do not have this standard of English may be disadvantaged.

What is covered within the course?

Through the use of case studies, you will learn and gain practical experience of the skills and techniques required to manage a mediation from initial instruction to conclusion including:

- The core skills;
- Preparing stage – setting it up;
- Opening stage – parties telling their stories
- Exploring stage – establishing parties needs and drivers
- Negotiating stage
- Concluding stage;
- Setting up a mediation practice

What are the learning outcomes?

On successful completion of this course, candidates will be able to:

- Define mediation and explain its place in the context of other forms of dispute resolution;
- Explain the process, procedure, its advantages and disadvantages;
- Demonstrate competence in the mediator's core skills;
- Demonstrate that they can manage a mediation.

How is the course delivered?

The course is delivered over a period of 6 days. Days 1-5 are run consecutively. They are training and practice days and combine discussion, skills exercises and role play practice.

Day 6 is the Assessment day.

Commercial Mediation Training and Assessment cont.

How will I be assessed?

- Candidates will participate as a Mediator in two mock-mediations of one-hour duration and may be involved in role-playing as clients.
- Candidates will be assessed in three categories: people skills, process skills and the management of the mediation.

People Skills: This category concerns the relationship between the mediator and the participants in the mediation. Building a trusting relationship is essential for an effective mediator. Being competent in this category is mandatory in both role plays.

Process Skills: This category concerns the mediator's ability to use the skills and techniques emphasised on the training course. Competent mediators use a variety of appropriate skills to establish parties' needs and help them towards settlement.

Management Skills: This category concerns the firm and tactical use of the process and skills. Competent mediators create an environment to give the parties the best opportunity of achieving a settlement.

This assessment is on a pass or fail basis. Candidates must achieve 'competent' in people skills in both mediations and in process skills and management skills at least once in either of their mediations. Candidates who fail the assessment will only be required to re-sit the assessment.

Module 2

Module 3

Mediation Theory and Practice

What is the aim of the course?

This course will provide candidates with a robust academic knowledge of an area of Mediation of interest to them. The course will support advanced development in practice as a Mediator. This module is mandatory for all candidates wishing to become a Fellow through the Mediation Pathway.

What are the entry requirements?

- Successfully passed and completed Module 2, or
- Have passed the CI Arb Module 2 online exemption test.

What is covered within the course?

The module requires candidates to apply their mediation skill in practice. The module comprises two parts:

Part 1:

- An extended essay on one aspect of mediation theory.
- Word count: 6000-7000 words.
- The essay must be completed within 6 months of receiving written formal approval.

Part 2:

- A practice portfolio based on 3 mediations as an observer and 3 mediations as lead mediator.

What are the learning outcomes?

On successful completion of this module candidates will be able to:

- Demonstrate enhanced skills in research including use of academic sources and correct legal citation, where appropriate.
- Identify practical mediation skills in the context of co-mediation or observation.
- Establish an ability to enhance their mediation practice skills through a process of reflection.
- Describe and explain the importance of a range of mediation skills and techniques to the effectiveness of a mediation.

How is the course delivered?

This module requires the candidate to complete an essay and practice portfolio with the support and guidance of a Mediation mentor appointed by CI Arb.

How will I be assessed?

The framework used for work submitted falls under five headings:

- Information: detail, accuracy, relevance and key points highlighted.
- Structure: Quality of the argument, how well it answers the question (how easy it is to follow).
- Analysis: Evidence of independent thought and critical analysis of your subject matter and sources.
- Supporting evidence: From literature and other relevant sources (i.e. handouts, media coverage), integration of relevant theory.
- Presentation skills: Writing style, referencing (accuracy and style), grammar and spelling, formatting, layout and general 'readability'.

Practice Portfolio

Candidates will write a reflective practice portfolio based on three cases that they have observed and three cases in which they have acted as a lead mediator.

Candidates will be invited to discuss their proposals for this module with the Mediation Regional Programme Leader and a suitable mentor will be identified.

Accelerated Route Assessments to Membership and Fellowship

About our accelerated routes

CIArb offers a range of 'Accelerated Route' assessment programmes that have been specifically designed for legally qualified professionals who have some unassessed knowledge and experience of Arbitration and Construction Adjudication. The assessments offer internationally recognised qualifications to build your practice in ADR and achieve CIArb Membership or Fellowship status.

Who are these assessments routes suitable for?

Accelerated routes are suitable for candidates who have legal backgrounds and have experience in Arbitration and/or Adjudication. Candidates must evaluate their personal suitability to undertake the assessments, appreciating that the assessments are intensive and that they will be assessed against standard benchmarks.

What is the difference between the accelerated route to Membership and Fellowship?

The Accelerated Route to Membership Assessment covers the law underpinning the process and procedure of Arbitration or Construction Adjudication. It is therefore valuable for anyone who is conversant with the law and practice generally, whether as a party or party representative.

The Accelerated Route to Fellowship Assessment focuses on the process, practice and procedures, and award writing in Arbitration or Construction Adjudication.

Further information on CIArb's courses is available at: www.ciarb.org/training

Accelerated Route to Membership Assessment

What is the aim of this assessment?

This two day assessment provides a fast-track route to Membership through the International Arbitration, Domestic Arbitration and Adjudication Pathways. The Accelerated Route to Membership has been designed for legally qualified professionals who have some unassessed knowledge of International/Domestic Arbitration or Adjudication.

Candidates must evaluate their personal suitability to undertake the programme, appreciating that the assessments are intensive and that they will be assessed against standard benchmarks.
