

The JAMS logo consists of the letters "JAMS" in a bold, white, sans-serif font, centered within a dark blue circular emblem that has a stylized, open-ring design.

Local Solutions.
Global Reach.™

The IDRC logo is a circular emblem with a teal-to-blue gradient background and white radial lines emanating from the center. The letters "IDRC" are written in white, bold, sans-serif font across the top of the circle.

New Perspectives, New Opportunities: Emerging Themes in Dispute Resolution

JAMS presents a multi part, hybrid seminar series of “Cocktails and Conversations”
26th – 28th October

Our ability to manage and resolve disputes all share one commonality: individuals, businesses and organizations in conflict will need assistance to find their way forward. As we reimagine connectivity and anticipate the disputes of the future, we must integrate the collective learning from the past fifteen months into sustainable practices for the future.

It will take time to listen and learn from our own reflections and those of others, strengthening our relationships and resilience as we do so. This is the starting point for new conversations about the ideas that will carry us forward - because when we collaborate, we find possibilities that would be impossible to discover alone.

JAMS panelists, together with support from local institutions, ADR practitioners, lawyers, business leaders will host a series of engaging and topic-focused “Cocktails and Conversations”. In these relaxed and informal sessions, attendees will engage with a panel of industry experts while enjoying cocktails and canapés to welcome the opening up of business, new perspectives and new opportunities.

Tuesday, 26th October

Croissants and Conversations on AI + ADR

8:00am London – Hybrid breakfast event with streaming via Zoom: Understanding of the influence and impact of AI in ADR

Wednesday, 27th October

Cocktails and Conversations on AI + IA

6:00-8:00pm London – hybrid discussion on the benefits the AI will provide for international arbitration with streaming via Zoom

Thursday, 28th October

Cocktails and Conversations on AI > D, E and I? Let's not let innovation be the answer to progress in diversity

6:00-8:00pm London – hybrid event on AI's impact on Diversity Equality & Inclusion with streaming via Zoom

Emerging Themes in Dispute Resolution: New Perspectives, New Opportunities

JAMS “Cocktails and Conversations” explores the salient issues of Dispute Resolution. Engage with our panel of ADR experts as we focus on what we have learned during the pandemic period and how we can integrate that learning into sustainable practices.

Join us for our upcoming October AI focused events by scanning this QR code and registering:

Engage with a panel of industry experts while enjoying cocktails and canapés to welcome the opening up of business, new perspectives and new opportunities.

Local Solutions.
Global Reach.™

AI + ADR

A look to the future

JAMS presents a multi part, hybrid seminar series of “Croissants and Conversations”

RSVP
to attend
In-Person
HERE

RSVP
to attend
Virtually
HERE

Tuesday, 26th October doors open at 8:00am, programme starts 8:30am London
9:30am Paris/ 3:30pm Hong Kong & Singapore/ 00:30am Los Angeles

The next 10 years will bring tremendous change across all businesses and industries. What will be the immediate impacts of artificial intelligence (AI) on ADR processes, are these impacts inevitable, and at what cost to the process? Some believe that AI will help to democratize dispute resolution and expand access, particularly in low value cases that may not justify a neutral’s involvement. Even for larger value cases, some parties may prefer AI involvement based on perceptions that an AI is more disinterested, objective, or fairer. On the other hand, AI may also increase bias, disparate treatment, and disenfranchisement from the justice system.

This program will explore these issues, as well as examples in which AI has been applied successfully, and not-so-successfully, to a range of disputes. What will emerge is a better understanding of the influence and impact of AI. We cannot pause the use and adoption of AI in ADR, but we can be part of its development and integration into all systems.

RYAN ABBOTT, M.D.,
FCIArb
*International Arbitrator
& Mediator
JAMS
London & New York*

TOM GROGAN
*Head of MDRxTECH
Mischo de Reya
London*

DR. RANSE HOWELL
*Director of International Operations
JAMS
London*

Additional speakers to be confirmed

60 minute programme with tea, coffee, croissants and pastries.

International Dispute Resolution Centre, 1 Paternoster Lane, EC4M 7BQ

Local Solutions.
Global Reach.™

AI – IA: Familiarity by appearance yet in reality unknown, taking charge of the future of International Arbitration

A multi part, hybrid seminar series of “Cocktails and Conversations” presented by JAMS and CI Arb

Wednesday, 27th October doors open 6:00pm, programme starts 6:30pm London
7:30pm Paris/1:30pm New York/10:30am Los Angeles

International arbitration relies on consistency and appropriate analysis and as many practitioners have articulated because the virtual experience also needs the human factor. So how can AI and IA work together? As we emerge from the totally virtual world many have stated the importance of human interaction and does AI replace human interaction or does it enhance? What elements can be enhanced and what part of the process do we require human interaction? Does AI replace analysis, or should it be used sparingly? Should only AI be used for technical analysis and is this reliable? These and many other questions are emerging and as they emerge additional questions need to be answered.

This discussion will focus on the benefits AI will provide for international arbitration and some of the inherent challenges petitioners have already faced when using the virtual environment. The panel will discuss not only the use of technology in international arbitration but the technology itself and what additional safeguards should be introduced. There will also be an examination of what additional mechanisms might need to be considered to fully embrace the opportunity that it can provide for all types of international arbitration, across a broad spectrum of jurisdictions and industries.

RSVP
to attend
In-Person
HERE

RSVP
to attend
Virtually
HERE

RYAN ABBOTT,
M.D., FCI Arb

*International Arbitrator
& Mediator
JAMS
Los Angeles & London*

DR. RANSE HOWELL

*Director of International Operations
JAMS
London*

LEWIS JOHNSTON, MCI Arb

*Assistant Director of Policy and External Affairs
CI Arb
London*

COLIN RULE
*President & CEO
Mediate.com
London*

CONNA A. WEINER

*International Arbitrator &
Mediator
JAMS
London & New York*

CI Arb
evolving to resolve

60 minute programme followed by cocktails and hors d'oeuvres.
*International Dispute Resolution Centre
1 Paternoster Lane, London, EC4M 7BQ*

Local Solutions.
Global Reach.™

AI > D, E & I? Let's not let innovation be the answer to progress in diversity

A multi part, hybrid seminar series of “Cocktails and Conversations” presented by JAMS and CEDR

RSVP
to attend
In-Person
HERE

RSVP
to attend
Virtually
HERE

Thursday, 28th October doors open at 6:00pm, programme starts 6:30pm London
7:30pm Paris/1:30pm New York/10:30am Los Angeles

There have been numerous initiatives to promote diversity in mediation and arbitration. From institutional commitments to those promoted by JAMS, CEDR, CIArb, ICC, LCIA, SIAC and NYIAC. The focus has been on access and inclusion and additional initiatives introduced by practitioners and practitioner groups such as Arbitral Women, The Pledge and REAL have also promoted the need for access and the benefits to clients and the process. Therefore, AI should help to assist by providing access and democratising the process for all.

This discussion will focus on what we currently know about AI, bias the potential impact on the diversity of inclusion and diversity of analysis. We will examine what will need to be done by institutions, practitioners, and researchers to recognise the impact and influence of bias on access, inclusion and ultimately decision-making. So, while AI is going to be part of ADR's future it should also be adopted in use with an understanding of the use and suitability of the processes introduced so therefore it can balance any inherent discrimination or bias.

RYAN ABBOTT,
M.D., FCIArb
International Arbitrator & Mediator
JAMS
Los Angeles & London

HIRO N. ARAGAKI
International Arbitrator & Mediator
JAMS
Los Angeles & London

ASAD DHUNNA
Founder & CEO
The Unmistakables
London

KIM M. KEENAN
International Arbitrator & Mediator
JAMS
Washington, DC &
London

EMILIA ONYEMA
Professor of International Commercial Law at OAS
Independent Arbitrator
London

SUSANNE SCHULER
*Director of Training
and Consultancy,
Senior Consultant & Mediator*
CEDR
London

60 minute programme followed by cocktails and hors d'oeuvres.
International Dispute Resolution Centre
7 Paternoster Lane, London, EC4M 7BQ